Pesach

(Passover)

YHWH had sent Moshe to speak to Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, to tell him that YHWH wanted him to let His people go, so that they may serve Him. However, Pharaoh does not know YHWH and does not care to know Him and refuses to let His people go. So, through Moshe, YHWH pours out a series of plagues upon Egypt to destroy them so that Pharaoh will come to the point of not just letting the people of YHWH go, but actually casting them out.

It is this last plague, in which the death of the firstborn of all Egypt happens that Pharaoh tells Moshe and all the people to leave. The way that YHWH accomplished this was that He commanded all of Israel to take a lamb on the tenth day of the first month and separate it for four days. Then on the fourteenth day of the month between the evenings each family was commanded to kill their lamb. Then they were to take some of the blood of that lamb and put it upon their doorposts and lintel. Then, when YHWH passed over all of Egypt and He saw the blood of the lamb, He would spare that house and would not kill the firstborn. However, if there was no blood on the doorposts and the lintel, then YHWH killed all the firstborn in that house.
