YHWH commanded Moshe to send spies into the land which YHWH had promised to Avraham and to Yitzchak and to Ya'aqov. They were to go into the land and see what kind of people lived in the land. They were also to bring back some of the fruit of the land.

YHWH commanded Moshe to pick twelve men, one of the leaders of each of the twelve tribes. These twelve men went into the land and spied it out for forty days.

When they came back from spying out the land they brought back grapes. One bunch of grapes was so large that it had to be carried on a pole between two of the men. That is a lot of grapes!

The men gave their report to all the people and ten of the men gave a report that was evil in the eyes of YHWH and turned the hearts of the people away from obeying Him. Two of the men, Calev and Yehoshua tried very hard to get the people to believe YHWH and to go in and possess the land YHWH had promised to them. They would not believe them and refused to go in and possess the land. As a result YHWH commanded them to wander in the wilderness for one year for each of the days they had spied out the land.
