Moshe was talking to the people about things that had happened since the leaders had been chosen. He spoke about the twelve spies, how they went into the land and brought back an evil report and encouraged the people not to go into the land and take possession of it. Then he reminded them of when they changed their minds and went to fight the Amorites, even though YHWH through Moshe warned them that they would not win because YHWH was not in their midst. He even spoke to them about their travels, and how they had to fight with Sichon of Cheshbon and take the land for themselves. They continued on and did the same thing to Og king of Bashan as they did to Sichon. They took possession of that land, too.
