The things for Aharon and his sons were made: the ephod, breastplate, robe, tunics, and headplate. The tabernacle was complete, and Moshe inspected it. The people had made it exactly as YHWH had told them to. The people then put the tabernacle together in exactly the order that YHWH commanded Moshe to put it together.

When the tabernacle was done, YHWH's glory came and filled it. The cloud covered it; and from then on, when the cloud was raised they would journey, but if it remained on the tabernacle they would stay where they were.

During the day, the cloud was over the tabernacle, but at night the pillar of fire was over it.
